

Integrated Protection as Alternative to the Traditional Methods of Grain Pest Control

Moshe Kostyukovsky

Grain losses during storage caused by pest insects may reach 30-40%. Today, the global tendency is to prevent/decrease the wide use of common high toxic insecticides, especially in food. The implementation of integrated protection approach as an alternative to the traditional methods of grain pest control in Israel resulted in a dramatic reduction in stored grain losses to $< 0.5\%$.