

Ronen Melnik is the Chairman of Oplon, an Israeli company developing anti-microbial solutions for the fresh food, the potable water, and the personal hygiene sectors. Ronen is also the Managing Partner of Wanaka Capital Partners, an Israeli VC firm. Before establishing Wanaka Capital Partners, Ronen was a principal at McKinsey & Company, serving industrial clients and financial institutions across a broad range of strategic and corporate performance topics, both in Israel and in Europe. He joined the company in London, and in 2000 helped establish McKinsey's practice in Israel. Prior to McKinsey Ronen worked in software services as a database specialist and project manager. Before that he served for seven years as a pilot and flight instructor in the Israeli Air Force. He holds a dual BA in Economics and Management from Tel Aviv University, where he graduated with distinction in 1996. He also has an MBA from the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School. Ronen serves on the board of directors of Rootility, an Israeli specialty seed company, and on the board of Insuline Medical.
